writing a book. There is a myth of creativity, that you need some perfect space and perfect time to create, that you can't do it where you are. But what you write is real life, so you have to be in real life to create it in words. That perfect time may never come, so just start where you are, one tiny bit at a time.

effect in developing writing prompts and scoring rubrics. Real writers are trying to make a difference, find their true audience, and cause some result in that readership. Yet academic writing is notoriously turgid, arguably because the impact of the prose is too often an afterthought, the writing a mere vehicle for offering up new knowledge.
